

Finsbury Tower

Capital | Thermal

Finsbury Tower, originally a 1960s office building, underwent a full refurbishment to transform the existing 153,000 sq ft office building to over 310,000 sq ft of retail, residential and office space across 29 storeys.

Capital Thermal was responsible for installing the fire-rated insulation for the smoke extract system. This project showcased our fire-rated insulation services and was significant as it reinforced our capability to deliver large-scale projects.

We collaborated with our client, ASM to develop new installation methods and conducted product testing alongside these efforts.
